REPORT

OF THE COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT TO THE SUBSCRIBERS

At the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh Annual Meeting held on 28th May, 1946.

IN submitting this report of the Hospital's work for the year 1945 the Committee of Management feel that with the conclusion of the war it would be appropriate to refer to the work which the Hospital has carried out during the last six years.

It may be remembered by many of the public that the outbreak of hostilities in September, 1939, found the Hospital in a considerable state of disorganisation owing to the re-building scheme which was in progress, and the Committee were faced with the problem of providing accommodation for additional patients if the necessity should arise. The problem was tackled with great enthusiasm by the contractors, Messrs. W. H. Trounson and Son, with the result that within twenty-four hours of the declaration of war the necessary temporary accommodation had been made available. Fortunately, however, it was not necessary to put this into use and the major part of the extension scheme had been completed before the first casualties were admitted.

The Committee look back with considerable pride to the work which the Hospital carried out during these years in the in-patient treatment of over 1,800 members of H.M. Forces and those of Allied countries, in addition to air-raid casualties which fortunately did not prove to be very numerous, together with over 700 children evacuated from danger areas and members of the Women's Land Army, etc. There were also 11,971 out-patient attendances in these categories. All this work was carried out under conditions at times of great difficulty owing to shortage of staff.

The Committee have to record with very deep regret the death of Dr. Lawry, who had for so many years been associated with the Hospital, and whose work had contributed so much to its development. Mr. E. Radbourne, who had been a member of the Committee for many years, and who had taken such a prominent part in the raising of funds for the Children's Ward, died in the early part of the present year and the work which he had done on behalf of the Hospital will always be remembered. The death was also recorded with very deep regret of Dr. Todrick, who had represented St. Levan on the Committee since the appointment of Parish Representatives.

The following members of the Committee resigned throughout the year, and the Committee desire to record their appreciation of all that they have done:—Mrs. E. M. Shimmin, Mr. H. M. Porter, and Mr. A. Oats, the representative for St. Hilary. During the year Mr. Scorer, who had acted as Honorary Solicitor for some considerable time, returned to Dover.

At the Annual Meeting the following new members were elected to the Committee of Management: Mrs. R. B. G. Birtill, Mr. J. Leonard Berryman, Mr. A. J. Carle, Mr. J. G. Cocking, Mr. Wesley Cole, Mrs. M. Henson, Rev. P. W. Luxton, Mr. W. Richards, Mr. W. Rowe, and the Rev. A. C. Williams.

The normal work of the Hospital has continued very steadily throughout the year. The number of patients admitted is a slight decrease on 1944 and there is also a very small drop in the number of out-patient attendances.

MATERNITY ACCOMMODATION.

This matter was again discussed with the Local Authorities, but it was felt that in view of the imminence of the National Health Service Bill, the matter must be deferred. The Committee, however, are of the opinion that this question must be kept continually in the mind of the public, together with the provision of further beds to cope with the ever-increasing demands.

EDUCATION ACT.

Under the scheme for in-patient treatment of school children, the Hospital has been approved for general medical and surgical cases, ophthalmic treatment and operations for tonsils and adenoids. The additional services which must be provided under the Education Act will undoubtedly lead to heavier demands on the already somewhat inadequate accommodation in the Children's Ward.

TRAINING SCHOOL.

It is regretted that the application made to the General Nursing Council for recognition as a complete Training School has not yet been granted, but the matter has been taken up by the British Hospitals Association, and it is hoped that the outcome of discussions with the Ministry of Health will result in the approval of the General Nursing Council. Miss Newton, the Sister Tutor, returned to South Africa and was succeeded by Miss B. M. Hawkins.

There has been a very serious falling off in the number of Students entering the profession, and this state of affairs, which is general throughout the country, is proving a source of great anxiety to Hospital authorities in general.

The Committee are glad to be able to report that the Students have continued their unbroken record of success in the Preliminary State Examinations. In the Hospital examinations held in the early part of the year, the highest marks in Anatomy and Physiology, Hygiene and Dietetics, Nursing and First Aid, were gained by Nurse M. Pascoe, with Nurses M. and B. Phillips second and third in all three subjects also. These three Students are now at the Radcliffe Infirmary, and the Committee feel they have every prospect before them of highly successful careers.

NEW BUILDING.

The necessary licences were granted by the Ministry of Supply for the conversion of the adjoining premises, leased to the Hospital by Lieut. Col. E. H. W. Bolitho, and work has been carried out by Messrs. E. Dennis and Son, Ltd. in accordance with the excellent scheme prepared by the Architect, Mr. A. J. Cornelius, F.R.I.B.A., of Truro.

These new premises will be of the utmost benefit to the Hospital and will not only enable far more accommodation to be made available for the Physiotherapy Department, but in addition the upper floor will provide a Training School which the Committee feel will be equal to any in the area.

HOSPITAL SURVEY.

The long awaited Survey report has now been received and the Surveyors have recommended that the Hospital should become one of the two District Hospitals in West Cornwall, the other being situated at St. Austell.

The Surveyors in their report have made several recommendations, particularly with reference to an improvement in the segregation of medical and surgical cases, and an enlargement of the X-ray Department.

Many of the figures given in the Survey Report were, however, very misleading, as they were based on information available in 1938 for the greater part of which year the Hospital's work was considerably disorganised owing to the re-building scheme which was in operation.

The Committee are of the opinion, however, that the recommendation of the Surveyors that the Hospital should be one of the only two District Hospitals in the area points to the importance of the work it has carried out in the past and the need for improvements and additions on the lines suggested by the Surveyors.

MEDICAL STAFF.

The Committee were very glad indeed to welcome back from the Army Doctors Leslie, Porritt and Reid, and this will mean a lessening of the burden on those members of the Medical Staff who have carried on throughout the war. Dr. Bannister was elected to the Staff during the year.

KITCHEN AND CATERING.

The Committee have endeavoured to improve this side of the Hospital service throughout the year, but the staff position has continued to be very difficult and it has at times been extremely hard to carry on with almost skeleton staffs.

A scheme for enlarging and improving the kitchen is at present under consideration by the Ministry, together with the provision of additional facilities for the Domestic Staff.

During the year a new cold room was built in the basement in place of the large refrigerator in the kitchen which had not proved entirely satisfactory. To assist in coping with the shortage of staff a "Euk" dish-washing machine has also been installed and various other methods of improving the kitchen are still under consideration.

The Hospital was visited during the year by Mrs. Needham, Advisory Dietician to the Ministry of Health.

NATIONAL HEALTH SERVICE.

There have been many meetings during the past few months in connection with the Bill which has now passed its second reading, and the Committee consider that, while there is much in the Bill which is good, the alternative plan prepared by the British Hospitals' Association should be supported, particularly with a view to the retention of local management committees.

It is felt that the patients must inevitably suffer to some extent through control being exercised from as far away as Bristol, and it is hoped that during the Committee stage of the Bill the Government may see their way clear to accept amendments to enable Hospitals, while performing their part of the plan, to keep some measure of independence.

The interim period before the National Health Service comes into operation must be extremely difficult, but the Committee are of the opinion that every effort should be made to continue to improve the service of the Hospital by the installation of new equipment, etc., thus enabling the Hospital to play its part when the scheme comes into operation.

GIFTS.

Amongst the many gifts in kind received during the year, two items in particular are worthy of special mention. These are the Chevrolet Ambulance presented by the American Ambulance, Great Britain, and a Fincham Slit Lamp and Corneal Microscope which was given by the boys of Devonport High School in appreciation of the treatment many of them had received during the time their school was in Penzance.

FINANCIAL POSITION.

It is inevitable that the financial position should have again given the Committee a considerable amount of anxiety, and the expenditure, which had been increasing rapidly for some time, amounted for the year to £27,655 7s. 3d.

The largest item is, of course, salaries and wages, although there was a decrease in the total amount paid to the Nursing Staff owing to the reduction in the Civil Nursing Reserve, and their substitution by Student Nurses.

The new scales for Nursing Staff which came into operation in January this year and the wages laid down by the Joint Council for Domestic Staffs will mean very heavy increases during the coming year, and in addition the scales for Administrative and Technical Staffs agreed with the various organisations will add considerably to expenditure under this heading.

The actual deficiency for the year was £8,173 4s 9d, but the amount realised by Special Appeal reduced the deficiency to be transferred to the Capital Outlay Account to £4,863 6s. 0d. The total of the Appeal was not as much as in the two previous years, but when it is appreciated that this was the third Appeal in succession and that there were many other calls being made on the public, the result must be regarded as most satisfactory.

The Appeals Committee, under the Chairmanship of Mr. A. Goldsworthy, worked with great enthusiasm and the thanks of the Committee are due particularly to Mr. W. Colenso, the Vice-Chairman, Mr. A. J. Carle, and Mr. N. White, who were responsible for the publicity, and the Joint Honorary Secretaries, Mrs. G. C. L. Poole and Miss A. Chirgwin. It would be impossible to mention all who did so much to achieve this splendid result, but to those who helped, the Committee desire to express their gratitude.

The Cup for the highest amount per head of the population was won by Gulval under their enthusiastic Chairman, Mr. W. Rowe.

The amount received from the Ministry of Health in respect of the casualty services was considerably less than in 1944, and with the reduction of E.M.S. beds, the income from this source must decrease very considerably in the coming year.

The Penzance and District Hospital Contributory Scheme, Ltd. increased the amount received from £3,550 4s 5d to £4,168 7s 9d. The Scheme have also in addition made a grant of £300 towards the furniture and equipment of the new laboratory. The tablet in the Children's Ward to mark their gift in 1944 was unveiled during the year.

The Gift House, in continuing their splendid support, have contributed £150, of which £50 is earmarked for the laboratory also.

Perhaps the most outstanding gift of the year was the sum of £500 given by Mrs. G. J. G. Osborne, of Mousehole, in memory of her husband. This gift was received with very sincere thankfulness and a tablet was unveiled by Mrs. Osborne in the Children's Ward to which this sum was devoted.

The following legacies were received during the year: The late Mr. W. Craze, St. Ives, £50; the late Mr. F. A. Bowden, £10. The Committee have also been notified of further bequests from the late Mrs. Rowe and Miss Elizabeth Ferris. The amounts of these legacies are not yet known, but will doubtless appear in the 1946 accounts.

The Annual Flag Day was most successful and realised £245 10s. 10d, an increase of £15 15s 10d over the 1944 result. The Churches also have carried on their good work and have increased the amount of their collections from £202 19s 9d to £219 8s 2d.

LINEN LEAGUE.

The work of the Linen League has also continued, although to the regret of the Committee Mrs. Bolitho has been forced to relinquish the management owing to her return to Jersey.

In conclusion, the Committee desire again to express their gratitude to the Medical Staff, Matron, the Nursing, Administrative and Domestic Staffs, St. John Ambulance Brigade, the Auditors, Messrs. Whitaker and Redfearn, the members of the W.V.S. who have so very kindly undertaken the mending of the Hospital Linen, and all those who have in so many ways helped the Hospital through such an important year in its development.

MARY WILLIAMS (President).

ALMONER'S REPORT

Another year's work in the Department has been completed and I am pleased to have this opportunity of giving a brief account of it. As it still causes me some surprise to find how few of our friends realise that an Almoner is not just a collector of patients' contributions, I am going to take the risk of boring some of my readers by reiterating briefly some of the points made in my first report. If you know all I am going to say, please be lenient and remember there are quite a large number of people who do not!

It has always been difficult for the Social Worker to state briefly what the aims of her work are, but I think none interested in social problems as a whole can fail to understand the implications of the list which I am quoting from a recently published report on Social and Preventive Medicine. These then are the duties which the Royal College of Physicians consider should fall to the trained Almoner to deal with.

The Almoner has to examine and to understand the social and economic state of the patient and his family.

To assess the capacity of the patient and his family to provide the environment which will maintain or assist in restoring his health and the well-being of his family.

To bring this knowledge to the notice of the medical and nursing staff so that the social and economic circumstances of the patient may be fully considered in reaching a diagnosis and in applying suitable treatment.

To inform the medical and nursing staff when the home circumstances or economic difficulties are such as to prevent the patient from following the advice given or the treatment prescribed.

To advise or when necessary to arrange for those auxiliary forms of treatment and help which fall within the Almoner's province.

To advise on and help when necessary in the welfare of the patient and his family after discharge from Hospital.

To undertake social investigations which may be required by the medical staff for the purpose of enquiry or research.

To ensure that before leaving the Hospital patients understand the instructions and advice which have been given to them.

I am well aware that in a small town where the local doctors form the medical staff of the Hospital, they know the circumstances of many of their patients far better than any stranger can hope to do, but often while recognising signs of distress, they have not always the time nor is it in their power to alter social circumstances which must be changed if their work is to be anything other than palliative. The accent to-day must be on prevention rather than patching. I shall not try to convince you that only the Almoner has the solution for all social ills, a cure for all anti-social behaviour, but by virtue of her training and experience she should be quicker to recognise the symptoms and have time and knowledge to alter the circumstances of some and prevent the continuation of abuse for others.

The method the Almoner follows when endeavouring to carry out her duties is to establish a good and friendly contact with the patient by personal interview. It is essential to gain his confidence and invest him with the feeling that you are trying to help him.

Co-operation with the medical and nursing staff is also one of the first principles of satisfactory work—a point which is not always appreciated, I think. It is difficult to give concrete examples of the work of the Department without abusing that confidence which we work so hard to maintain, but I trust the following details will show in some measure how the principles of the work are applied to the individual case.

“To advise on and help when necessary in the welfare of the patient after discharge from Hospital”:

In the early part of the year I was asked to interview a female patient of 62 years who was considered ready for discharge from the ward, but had no home or relatives to go. It transpired that this woman had worked as a domestic servant for many years, and following her long illness her employers did not feel able to take her back. Her wage had never been large; consequently her savings were very minute and her possessions were nil. She did not wish to go into the Institution, and an effort was made to find her some suitable accommodation, and I am glad to say that this proved successful. We then started to get a home together, and with the help of the ex-employers and various other friends, enough furniture was found. A small gift from the St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Christmas Appeal Fund provided the cash expenditure which was absolutely necessary. After a little delay and some ups and downs, we were able to see the patient safely settled in her first home, and I am glad to say that with the help of her Old Age Pension she is now living happily and contentedly and has not had to return to the Hospital for further nursing or medical treatment.

“To assess the capacity of the patient and his family to provide the environment which will maintain, or assist in restoring, his health and the well being of his family.”

An elderly male out-Patient was recommended by the Specialist to go to London for a second opinion and possible operation which could not be performed here. He was astonished and confused by the recommendation, and was referred to the Almoner for advice and help. Enquiry proved that he and his family were financially and mentally incapable of following the Surgeon's recommendation. Arrangements were made for the patient's interview in the Out-Patient Department of a big London Hospital, and a bed was provisionally reserved in case the Surgeon advised admission. Travel arrangements were made, including an escort to meet the patient at Paddington and convey him to the Hospital (the patient was a man who had never travelled beyond Truro in his life) and accommodation was arranged for his wife who accompanied him and remained in London until the operation was safely over. Although the family were able to produce some of the necessary money, the Almoner had to supplement it from the Samaritan Fund, but I am very glad to report that the results fully justified the expenditure, as the operation proved very successful and at the time of this report the patient is suffering no further inconvenience.

“To ensure that before leaving the Hospital patients understand the instructions and advice which have been given to them.”

Instructions are normally given to patients leaving the Wards or the Out-Patient Department by the medical or nursing staff, but occasionally owing to the patient's confusion of mind or the lack of clarity with which the instructions are given, a misunderstanding arises—hence we have the patient re-attending on the wrong day or with only half his recommended treatment carried out, as for example the child who comes for a sight test with the dilating ointment put into one eye instead of both—necessitating a further attendance, more delay, and often further expense. A few words with the Almoner on departure when instructions can be gone over again will often prevent such unfortunate incidents occurring.

I do want all those interested in the Almoner's Department to understand that a great deal of practical help is sought from outside agencies, and in closing this report I would like to thank those who have helped us this year, including: The Health Visitors and District Nurses, the British Red Cross and the British Legion, the Soldiers', Sailors' and Airmen's Families' Association, Army Welfare Officers, and the Women's Voluntary Services. The Hospital Car Service with transport, and various other organisations with financial help for patients in distress. I should also like to take this opportunity of publicly thanking all those who have contributed sums, either large or small, to the Samaritan Fund which is collected and administered by the Almoner for the provision of convalescence, surgical appliances, travelling expenses, etc., for the patients. The work of the Department would be very seriously curtailed without this Fund to fall back on, and I am deeply grateful for the support that has been given.
